General Comment

If I understand this proposal correctly, you want to take control of my personal retirement fund accounts in order to invest it and then give my money back to me in a sum you deem appropriate. What I can see is that you really want to use my private retirement funds to finance your deficit spending. That is totally offensive to me and to every other American that has worked hard to save our money for our retirement. Those people that choose not to fund their own personal retirement account have absolutely not right to receive any of my retirement funds and neither does the federal government. This attempt at redistribution of wealth is just plain wrong.
